

Guaranteed

Exterior wood products get one chance for their perfect first coat. Factory finished by Edmund Allen Lumber with technically superior coatings and processes, the built-in durability of nature's shingles is backed by a century-old cedar and finishing pioneer. We only finish kiln-dried shingles with factory-warranted coatings in a controlled environment, ensuring optimal performance and lasting beauty on your home. Five and fifteen-year coating warranties turn your design aspirations into responsible, low-maintenance product decisions.

Home

This is the look you've seen in so many home magazines, the look you've been waiting to put on your next house — your dream home. Real Cedar Shingles from Edmund Allen Lumber will reflect how serious and deliberate you are about the products that define and protect your home. A choice that says this home is real.

Timeless

The shingle style, though resurgent, is by no means a fad. Generations of craftsmen have relied on cedar as the material of choice for tens of thousands of vintage and contemporary homes. From cottages to Victorians to lighthouses - cedar shingles have set the standard for durability, authenticity and integrity in exterior design and performance.

Natural

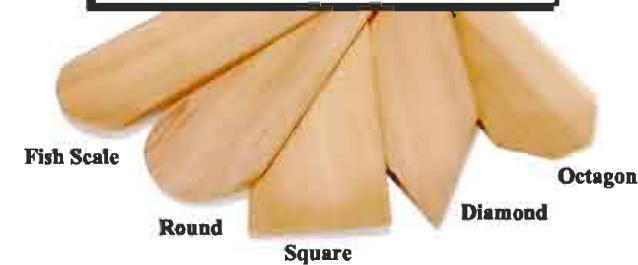

There is no vinyl, fiber cement or composite alternative that can rival the random individuality of cedar shingles. Attempts at imitating the real thing often result in a bland, obvious repetition of pattern, minimal design flexibility and limited color choices. Real cedar shingles, installed unfinished or enhanced by a premium factory finish, treat the eye to a unique warmth and texture only achieved by nature, and offer a color palette limited only by your imagination.

Versatile

Cedar shingles can be installed with a uniformity of reveal and spacing for a classic, formal tone, or they can be installed staggered, in waves or with alternating exposures to establish rustic or prairie inspired moods. The dramatic combinations of geometrically crisp Decorator Shingles offer an amazing array of accents or a distinctive, elegant Victorian personality. Each application of cedar shingles offers an opportunity for a signature look for your unique home.
